

Faculty Positions
Division of Clinical Research Ethics
Department of Clinical Sciences
UT Southwestern Medical Center

The Division of Clinical Research Ethics in the Department of Clinical Sciences at UT Southwestern Medical Center in Dallas is seeking applications for Assistant Professor/Associate Professor/Professor level faculty, the academic rank of which will be determined by the qualifications of the candidate. The new and rapidly growing Department of Clinical Sciences has the mission of achieving excellence in the clinical and translational sciences that has already been achieved in the basic sciences at UT Southwestern.

Doctoral level candidates for this position should demonstrate through publications, presentations, and previous teaching experience a strong professional desire to advance and strengthen the fields of research ethics in the areas of clinical and translational research. We seek to develop a strong professional academic program focused on both empirical research on matters relevant to research ethics and conceptual/philosophical work in the area of research ethics. The candidate must have a strong background in clinical research ethics as evidenced by professional experience and/or accomplishments, and should include innovative contributions to peer-reviewed publications, experience with peer-reviewed research funding, involvement on academic/institutional committees, and successful teaching abilities in leading interactive and thought-provoking coursework at the graduate level. The candidate must have an excellent interpersonal and communication style essential for developing and building collaborative research projects across departmental and institutional boundaries. Opportunities exist for joint or adjunct appointments to Southwestern's general bioethics program, the Program in Ethics in Science and Medicine.
